ANIMAL EMERGENCY REFERRAL CENTER RECEIVES ACCREDITATION

Torrance, CA - Animal Emergency Referral Center has received accreditation following a comprehensive evaluation by the American Animal Hospital Association (AAHA). The evaluation includes a quality assessment review of the hospital's facility, medical equipment, practice methods and pet health care management.

Only 12 percent of all small animal veterinary practices in the U.S. have achieved accreditation by the American Animal Hospital Association. In order to maintain accredited status, Animal Emergency Referral Center must continue to be evaluated regularly by the association's trained consultants.

“Animal Emergency Referral Center belongs to a select group of practices that are committed to meeting the highest standards in veterinary medicine,” says Michael P. Andrews, DVM, AAHA president. “AAHA hospitals pass stringent evaluation of over 900 standards covering patient care, client service and medical protocols. By attaining accreditation, Animal Emergency Referral Center is demonstrating its dedication to offering the best care to its patients and clients.”

The American Animal Hospital Association is an international organization of more than 36,000 veterinary care providers who treat companion animals. Established in 1933, the association is well known among veterinarians for its high standards for hospitals and pet health care.
