TRUMP LAWSUIT AGAINST RPV GOES TO FEDERAL COURT

A federal judge will hear a lawsuit filed against the City of Rancho Palos Verdes by the owners of the Trump National Golf Club. The lawsuit alleges that the golf course owners have been frustrated in their efforts to develop real property adjacent to the course and seeks $100,000,000 in damages. It is the City's view that the case lacks merit.

Originally filed in Los Angeles Superior Court, the City Attorney removed the case to federal court because of the claims of civil rights violations. The case has been assigned to Federal District Judge Margaret M. Morrow, in downtown Los Angeles.
